

The Corporate Sustainability Due Diligence Directive: a Paradigm Shift in the Protection of Human Rights and Environment in the EU?

December 4th, 2024 – h. 10:15/13:45

University of Bologna, Forlì Campus - Teaching Hub (Room 3)

h. 10.15 - Welcome Address

Lorenzo Zambernardi

(University of Bologna)

Presentation of the Forlì Human Rights Centre

Marco Balboni

(University of Bologna)

Carmelo Danisi

(University of Bologna)

Opening Remarks

Francesca Ragno

(University of Bologna)

I Session – Setting the Stage –

Chair: Marco Balboni

Fabrizio Marrella

(University of Venice)

Business and Human Rights: a Long Path

Ludovica Chiussi Curzi

(University of Bologna)

The International Push for Change and the Response of Domestic Legal Systems

Marco Boraccetti

(University of Bologna)

The Role of the Private Sector in contrasting Human Trafficking

Elena Sychenko

(Saint Petersburg State University)

Sustainability Reporting as a Tool to enhance Company's Performance

Coffee break h.12.00 /12.15

II Session – The new EU Legal Framework –

Chair: Alessandra Zanobetti

(University of Bologna)

Alex Geert Castermans

(Leiden University)

The Corporate Sustainability Due Diligence Directive: a Game Changer?

Emanuele Menegatti

(University of Bologna)

The Impact of the Due Diligence Directive on the Promotion and Protection of Fundamental Labour Rights in Global Supply Chains

Federico M. Mucciarelli

(University of Modena and Reggio Emilia)

Due Diligence Obligations and General Director Duties

Chris Thomale

(University of Vienna and Roma Tre University)

The Private Enforcement of the Directive and its Political Economy

Marharyta Radchenko

(University of Verona)

Greening the Supply Chain: Sustainability Clauses and Codes of Conduct

Attorneys that will attend the conference will earn three continuing education credits (3 crediti formativi), as recognized by the Forlì-Cesena Bar Association.

